

A Look Inside Robert Alexander Center for Recovery's Inpatient Residential Program

by Robert Alexander Center | Jan 31, 2023 | Blog, Educational Resource

Drug and alcohol abuse are ongoing problems that affect people and can significantly diminish their life.

This is why the Robert Alexander Center was established to help those who need to recover from drug and alcohol addictions. Addiction treatment for substance abuse is one of the hardest journeys that you or a loved one may have to take.

But it is well worth it because it will restore the quality of your life.

Safe Detoxification

Detoxification is one of the most critical parts of the rehabilitation process. It is important that you detoxify safely. You may experience mild to severe withdrawal symptoms.

At our Treatment center, we are aware of this and we take all the necessary precautions to make sure that you detox safely. Withdrawal symptoms intensity can vary depending on the drug. Our expert team will take your individual needs into consideration during the detoxification process.

A medically assisted detox will be provided if necessary. This type of detoxification is one of the safest ways in which you can get your body to metabolize the drugs that are still in your system in a safe way.

The bottom line is that at our facility you will go through the detoxification process in a safe environment that is supervised by professionals.

Residential Inpatient Rehabilitation

Our addiction treatment center provides inpatient or rehabilitative care for you or your loved one. The program works by creating a personalized plan based on what each individual needs for their recovery.

Our team knows and understands that there is no one-size-fits-all approach when it comes to drug rehab. Everyone is different based on their own psychological, emotional and physical needs.

All of this is taken into consideration so that we can craft a unique drug treatment plan for you. This is the only way to guarantee long-term success. If you prefer you can try our outpatient program if staying in residence is not convenient.

Enjoy a Cozy Environment

To have a successful rehabilitation you need a cozy and safe environment. We take away the clinical feeling of your rehab process and give you an environment in which you can be comfortable.

While the structure is always important to the success of any program we understand that patient comfort is important too. At our center, we provide great care with a lot more freedom and less rigidity.

It is important that you feel comfortable but still get the prescribed treatment at the same time. The more relaxed you feel, the more you will feel motivated to continue the program.

Unmatched Support

The success of any drug abuse treatment program depends on the level of support that the patient receives. Our goal is to make sure that you get the highest level of support possible when you check into our treatment center.

From the time when you make your first call to when you become a patient in the facility, we are there to guide and support you.

Our experienced staff will prepare you for the challenging road ahead. We will face all obstacles and challenges with you so that you never feel alone.

One of the things that drug abuse can cause is isolation. Many people start using drugs because they feel alone and isolated. Our aim is to dismiss any feelings of isolation as you go through the process of recovery.

Aftercare Services

Once you have successfully completed your recovery program, you will not be left to figure out how best to stay on the new path that you have created for yourself. Our team of experts is here for you for aftercare services as well.

Recovering from substance abuse is an ongoing process. We understand that the first few days or weeks when you leave our facility can be the most challenging.

This is especially true if you are going back to an environment that has not changed since you left. You're going to have to learn how to maintain your sobriety until you can take care of yourself out of that environment, and we are here to support you.

Get the Help You Need

Getting the help you need is the best way to get yourself on the path to recovery. It is one of the most beneficial things you can do for your health. If you have made the tough decision to get treatment is one of the bravest things you could ever do.

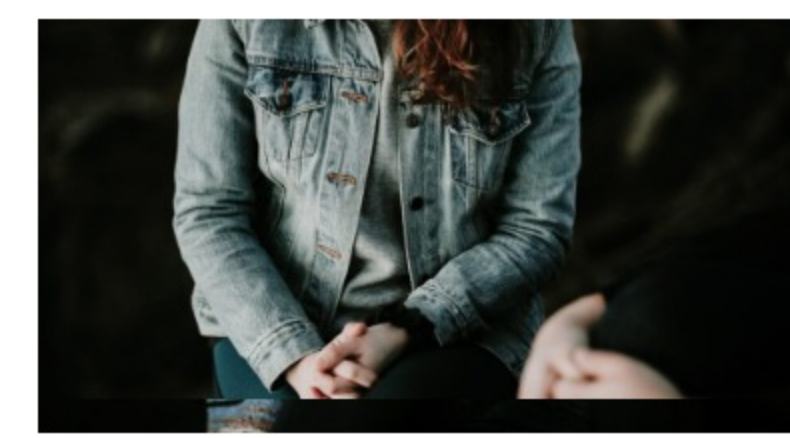

At the Robert Alexander Center, you will get all the support you need from the time you make the very first call to when you leave the facility, so if you're ready to get started with your recovery contact us today.
